

COSTA RICA

PHOTOGRAPHY IN NATURE
with Gustafson Photo Safari

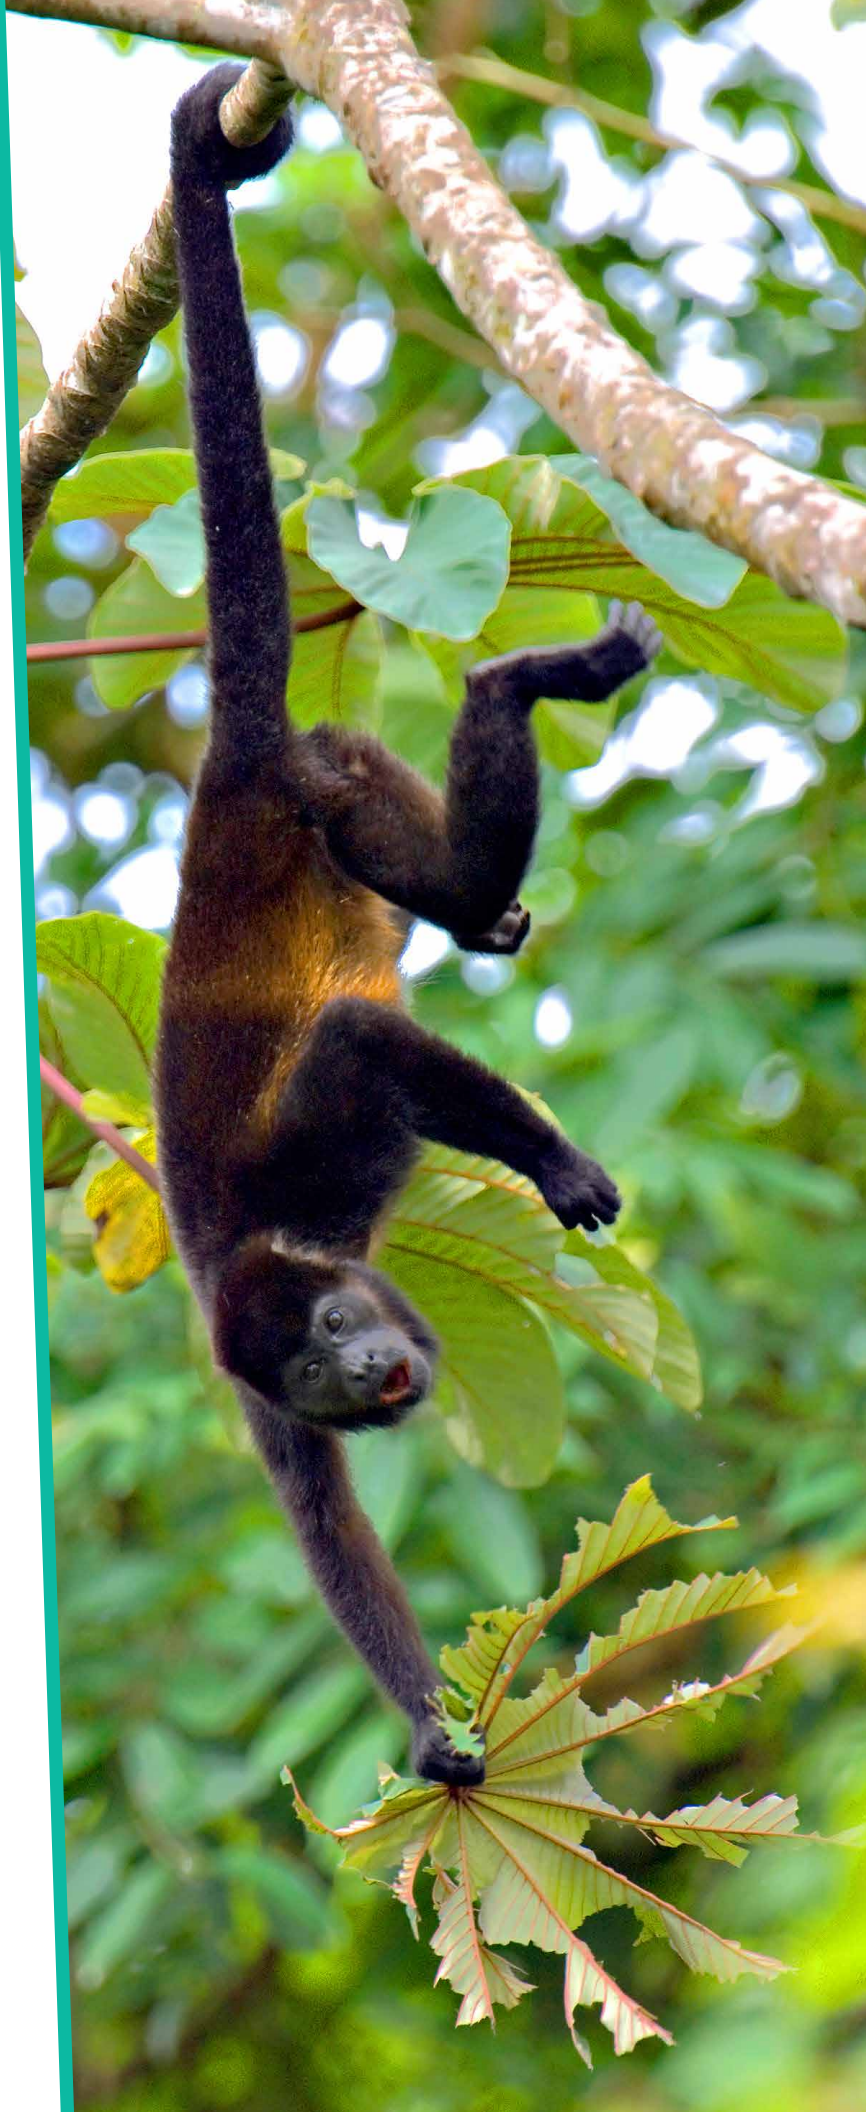

November 28 – December 7, 2022

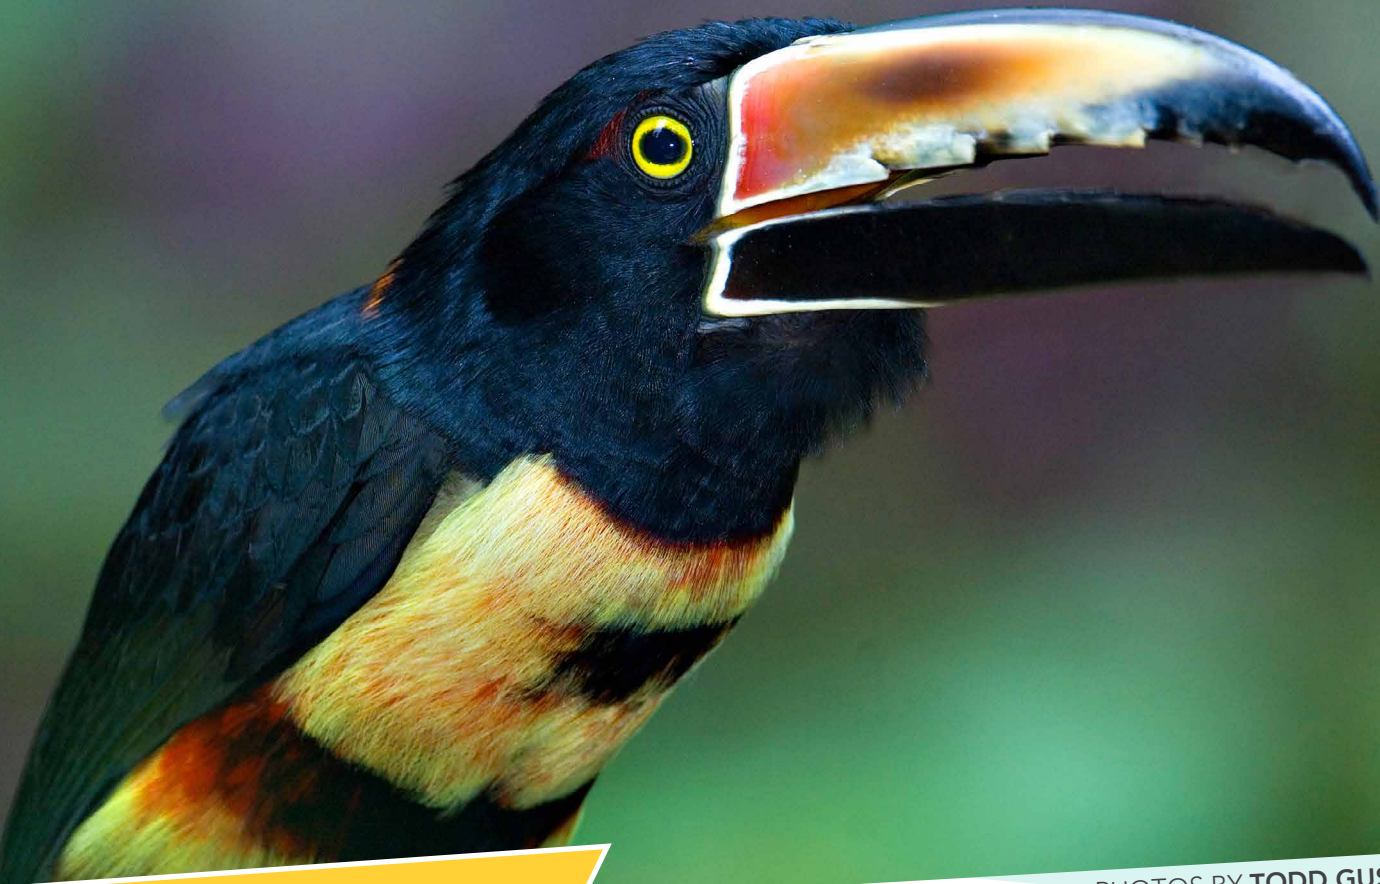

Turtles hatch on a secluded beach, resplendent quetzals glide through a cloud forest, and the green macaw's insistent call breaks the silence of the rainforest, here in Costa Rica at the ends of the Earth. Costa Rica's vibrant flora and fauna offer photographic opportunities you will see nowhere else. This small, friendly country is home to a great diversity of habitats including the lowland tropical rainforest, an outstanding venue to capture shots of a lifetime! The forest is alive with striking plants and colorful flowers, insects, reptiles, amphibians, and a variety of bird life including toucans, parrots, jacamars, hummingbirds, and motmots. Images from Costa Rica that inspire a full chapter in To the Ends of the Earth Volume 3 The Natural World include a newly hatched green sea turtle entering the surf for the first time, a two-toed sloth peering through green vines as it clings to its perch on a rainforest tree, and a lemon yellow eyelash pit viper relaxing on a thin branch. With tips, techniques and personal instruction from a top digital photography expert, Todd Gustafson, you will return with an amazing portfolio of colorful images and a new sense of wonder about the tropics.
